Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of the Group I invention, Claims 1 to 15 and 21 to 25 (new), in the reply filed on 4/26/05 is acknowledged. Claims 16 to 20 have been canceled.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 21 to 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hoffman (U.S. Patent No. 6,603,183).

Hoffman show all aspects of the instant invention (e.g. Figure 1) including:

- an insulative layer 104,106 extending over a side surface of side sensor die and attached to the non-photo sensing surface via an adhesive 110
- a window in said insulative layer (between side 106I) covered with a glass 130
- electrically conductive patterns 108,116,122,120 extending over said sides of said die and connecting solder balls 126 to said bond pads via holes 122A in said insulative layer
- an encapsulant 119 encapsulating said conductive patterns and said bond pad but not covering said photo sensing surface

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 1 to 5, 7 to 12, 24 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoffman and Tu et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,559,539).

Hoffman shows most aspects of the instant invention (Paragraph 4) except for the memory die attached to the non-photo sensing surface and conductive bumps interposed between the memory die and conductive patterns. Tu et al. teach (e.g. Figure 3) to attached a memory die 22 to the non-photo sensing surface of an image sensor die 26 and to put conductive bumps 36 interposed between the memory die and conductive patterns 16 to lower costs (Column 3 Line 64 to Column 4 Line 11). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to attached a memory die to the non-photo sensing surface of an image sensor die and to put conductive bumps interposed between the memory die and conductive patterns as taught by Tu et al. in the device of Hoffman to lower costs.

7. Claims 6 and 13 to 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoffman and Tu et al., as applied to Claim 21 above, and further in view of Komiyama (U.S. Patent No. 6,329,708).

Hoffman and Tu et al. show most aspects of the instant invention (Paragraph 6) except for the first curved portion having a curvature on the side of said image sensor die and second memory die attached as claimed. Komiyama teaches (e.g. Figures 7 to 9) to have a first curved portion 608a having a curvature on the side of said image sensor die 601a and first and second memory dies 601b attached as claimed to reduce Manufacturing costs (Column 8 Lines 3 to 11). (Although not shown, other memory dies could be attached via holes 633b; see ibid). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to have a first curved portion having a curvature on the side of said image sensor die and first and second memory dies attached as claimed as taught by Komiyama in the device of Hoffman and Tu et al. to reduce Manufacturing costs.

Conclusion

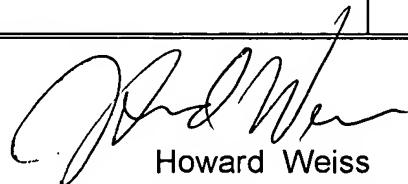

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Glenn et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,492,699) show a similar photo device as the instant invention and Akram et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,165,817) teach to curve a insulating layer around the side of a die.

9. Paper copies of cited U.S. patents and U.S. patent application publications will cease to be mailed to applicants with Office actions as of June 2004. Paper copies of foreign patents and non-patent literature will continue to be included with office actions. These cited U.S. patents and patent application publications are available for download via the Office's PAIR. As an alternate source, all U.S. patents and patent application publications are available on the USPTO web site (www.uspto.gov), from the Office of Public Records and from commercial sources. Applicants are referred to the Electronic Business Center (EBC) at <http://www.uspto.gov/ebc/index.html> or 1-866-217-9197 for information on this policy. Requests to restart a period for response due to a missing U.S. patent or patent application publications will not be granted.
10. Papers related to this application may be submitted directly to Art Unit 2814 by facsimile transmission.
